PRESIDENT BEGINS HIS SECOND TERM

ROOSEVELT TAKES OATH BEFORE IMMENSE AUDIENCE

SOLEMNITY MARKS EVENT

Multitude Awe as Chief Executive Repeats Binding Words—Twenty-Gun Salute—Fairbanks Is Inducted.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and to the best of my ability, protect, preserve and defend the constitution of the United States." With these words Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States for the past three years, was Saturday inaugurated for another term to the highest office which it is the privilege of an American citizen to attain.

Chief Justice Fuller, with all the solemnity of the three other occasions of like character in which he has figured during his career, administered the oath to the president. This was the fourth and last instance in which the chief justice is to be the second figure of importance. Hardly had the president disappeared his inaugural address and disappeared within the capitol building than the hush which had fallen upon the spectators when he raised his hand preparatory to taking the oath was broken by the deafening roar of 21 guns in official salute to the executive, just entering upon his second term as president.

Interest at Its Height.

During the hours intervening between the gathering of the crowd and the organizations arriving by different routes passed into the narrow defiles which the police kept open, the brilliant uniforms of the troops, the bright sashes of the committees and the rich caparisoning of the horses lending themselves to a kaleidoscopic, panoramic effect. Cheers upon cheers greeted the constantly shifting picture.

As rapidly as the troops arrived they took the positions assigned them. The military escort stretched far to the left and consisted of all branches of the service—horse, foot and artillery. To the right were grouped division after division of state troops, and in different places of the other organizations took their stand to await the signal to move.

The movements of the gathering troops and organizations were not all the crowd had for its entertainment. Directly in front preparations were in progress for the inauguration itself. The monster stand in the form of an open platform, accommodating 7,000 persons, had been erected on a line with the rotunda of the capitol and there were engaged in arranging for the ceremony and ushers bussed themselves learning the sections to be assigned to the various officials and distinguished guests.

Notables Begin to Arrive
Shortly after noon, just following the induction into office of Vice President Fairbanks, the monster stand, decorated with plants, flowers, flags and bunting, began to fill with the people who had just finished witnessing the ceremonies in the senate chamber, and scarcely a half hour passed before this coign of vantage was filled to overflowing. Added to the color afforded by the plants and bunting were the british costumes of the women, and these put on a touch of variety which rivaled the occasion of four years ago. Every ledge about the capitol and the windows were filled to the point of overflowing with their human burdens, and long before the official party appeared the streets were jammed as far as the eye could reach.

Several minutes before one o'clock an extra loud burst of cheers from the multitude just in front of the main capitol door called the attention from the brilliant parade of uniforms in the street to the official party, which had just come through the main door. "The president, there he is," and similar cries came from the assembled populace, but the nation's chief was not to come for some moments.

A hush was noticeable in the crowd. The official entrance was dramatic. All except those who were participating in the ceremony were seated. When the justices of the supreme court, with the exception of Chief Justice Fuller, emerged from between the Corinthian pillars and marched down the sloping carpeted aisle to their station they were greeted with applause. The justices wore their robes and skull-caps. Then came the members of the diplomatic corps, in their gorgeous uniforms, and they evoked thunderous applause. Led by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador and dean of the corps, and followed by the others in order of precedence, they took seats on the right of the stand. Strolling in after them came members of the cabinet, senators and representatives in congress.

Hush as President Comes.

Following on the heels of the official party came Mrs. Roosevelt and a party of friends; then, but a moment later, the new vice president, Mr. Fairbanks, and his escort arrived and were greeted by tremendous bursts of applause. As soon as Vice President Fairbanks seated himself the cheers ceased, the military presented arms, every hat in the committee came off and the great ocean of people set up a perfect roar of cheers, fairly shouting itself hoarse.

Quick as a flash every sound was stilled and President Roosevelt, quiet and composed of demeanor, came from between the gigantic pillars, escorted by Chief Justice Fuller. A random burst of cheers came from the front of the crowd as with measured tread, in harmony with the dignified step of the chief justice, the president advanced in state down the long aisle of distinguished guests. By this time all were standing and nothing could be heard above the roar of thunderous welcome, immediately following came arm in arm, the members of the committee on arrangements. As the president passed down the aisle he bared his head and with characteristic sweep of his hat bowed in acknowledgement of the salutations from the stand and the ovation from the people.

The man of the hour was before the most representative gathering that had ever assembled to greet the chief executive of the nation upon a like occasion. President Roosevelt's manner was not that of a man upon whose head fell the great responsibilities of a nation's care. Three years of experience as chief executive had changed this man as much as did Lincoln's liberation of the black man change that great statesman. While he waited for the applause to die out he stood in triumph, with no show of vanity, with no evidences of political enmity, apparently no memories of the campaign gone by, and nothing more disconcerting than a huge gathering of loyal Americans.

Oath Is Administered.

Chief Justice Fuller stepped to the front of the pavilion constructed especially for the use of the president during the ceremonies, and his clerk came forward bearing a Bible. A hush, followed by absolute silence, fell over the crowd, which but a moment before was cheering itself hoarse. President Roosevelt raised his right hand and took the oath which binds him in supporting the laws and constitution of the United States, with great reverence and amid deep silence. So great was the awe of the assembled multitude that not the semblance of a demonstration followed. Then the president began his inaugural address, and as soon as he had finished and disappeared within the capitol the signal was flashed to the navy yard and the salute of 21 guns told the end of the ceremonies and the initial step of the president's entrance into his second term of office.

endar of events for the day, was the induction of Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana, into the office of the vice president of the United States in the senate chamber. The ceremony was brief and simple to the extent of being severe. Immediately following the address and oath of Vice President Fairbanks came the final adjournment of the Fifty-eighth congress and the beginning of the special session.

Many other events, such as the swearing in of almost a third membership of the senate and various routine duties which were in themselves of great import, were thrust into the background by the impressive ceremonies which preceded. "Solemn and yet brief" is the way the taking of the oath impressed the spectators. It consisted of a promise, made with uplifted hand and bowed head, to perform the duties of the office and to support and defend the constitution of the United States. This was the oath of office, and it was administered by Senator Frye as president pro tempore of the senate. The two officials stood confronting each other on the elevated platform on which rests the desk of the preceding officer of the senate, practically on the same spot on which all the incoming vice presidents for the past 50 years have stood.

Regarding the notables who were present at the ceremony in the senate, practically the same personages were seen at this event as were present about an hour later at the inauguration of the president. Every niche and cranny in the gallery was filled with people. That section which is generally used privately by the senators was turned over to the executive party and directly opposite that quarter newspaper men were busily engaged portraying the scenes about them. Outside of these two quarters of the gallery persons holding special tickets were seated.

Shortly before 12 the special guests began to arrive. The president was seated in a big red leather chair immediately in front of the desk of the presiding officer and was an interesting spectator of the ceremony in which he himself had participated four years ago. The induction ceremony did not consume more than two minutes of time and was administered by Mr. Frye, presiding officer of the senate.

With the last positive thump of the gavel upon the desk Senator Frye relinquished his position as president pro tem by announcing the end of that body. Taking a seat to one side Mr. Fairbanks took his place and began his inaugural address. This was followed by the prayer of Dr. Edward Everett Hale. Then the organization of the senate was completed, the oath in each case being administered by Mr. Fairbanks. Immediately upon the adjournment the guests began to file out of the gallery and preparations were begun for the inauguration of the president.

Guthrie, Ok., March 4.—Rev. H. Bernard Murphy of Krebs, I. T., was Friday elected abbott of the Benedictine Sacred Heart Abbey in Southwestern Oklahoma, and will be the first American incumbent, and succeeds Abbott Felix Degrasse, who died recently.

The election took place in the abbey and was presided over by Rt. Rev. Boniface Natter, lord abbott of Buckfast, England, who came to the United States especially for this ceremony.

Rev. Murphy was born in Savannah, Ga., in 1858 and joined the Benedictines in 1875. He is a pioneer worker among the Indians in Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

It is believed that it was the work of an organized gang of thieves, and all officers in the Creek nation are on the alert, and arrests are hourly expected.

The entertainment last evening given under the auspices of the ladies of the Christian church and which Miss Case directed was a flattering success. All participants acquitted themselves most admirably.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

Conferees Did Not Report And Statehood Bill Goes Over.

Washington, Mar. 3.—The day passed without anything developing in the statehood situation, and there are no indications that anything approximating an agreement either to admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory as the state of Oklahoma, or two states along the line of the house bill, will be reached tonight. The conferees made no report, and the motion to dismiss the conferees and concur in the house bill was not pushed in the senate.

To all appearances another congress will pass into history at noon tomorrow, without performing its duty to the 1,500,000 people of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. With the death of this congress, the statehood bill will also die, and all of the work and successes of the past two years will be literally thrown away.

A new bill must be introduced next fall must go through the tortuous committee route of the house, and finally pass that body. Then the process must be repeated in the senate. And then perhaps there will be more conferences. But there is talk that all of this will be done next session. Beveridge has all along contended that with the additional republican members, the house measure for two states of the four can be forced through congress, even if the opposition resorts to a filibuster.

City Hall For Durant.

Durant, I. T. Mar. 4.—The city council has determined to erect at once a two-story stone city hall and fire station, and also put on three paid firemen and two teams to draw the hose and truck wagons. The improvements will cost about $5,000.

The improvements in the fire department will be made in order to secure a reduction of 20 per cent in the fire insurance, promised by the insurance raters, who are now in the city.

Teachers To Get Their Pay.

Muskogee, I. T., March 4.—Arrangements were perfected Thursday whereby the 200 teachers in the schools of Indian Territory who have been waiting for their pay since last October, will be paid at once. Checks drawn on the subtreasury at St. Louis were sent out yesterday to teachers, aggregating about $15,000, and the remainder of the $35,000 now due will be sent within ten days.

Hereafter the government will arrange the funds so that the teachers may be paid promptly at the end of each quarter.

STATEHOOD BILL IS DEAD.

Conferees on the Measures Fail to Reach an Agreement at the Last Moment and No Action Is Taken.

Washington, March 4.—The statehood bill died at 9:30 o'clock Friday night. At that time the conferees on the bill parted, not to meet again during the Fifty-Eighth Congress. There were persistent efforts on the part of the Senate conferees to get a disagreement report to the two Houses, but conferees made the positive declaration that no disagreement report would be signed.

The plan of the House leaders on the statehood question for the next Congress has been outlined. The first days of the next session, Mr. Hamilton, chairman of the House Committee on Territories, will introduce the statehood bill with provisions like these which passed the House. He will call his committee to pass the bill, which action will be taken without preliminary hearings. Within two weeks it is expected that the bill will be on the House calendar. A special order will be forthcoming to put it through without protracted discussion, and the question then will be taken before the Senate. It is believed that with a long session before it the bill can be passed by the Senate.

Lawton, Ok., Mar. 4.—The banks of Comanche county which refused to pay their 1904 taxes because, in the assessments, the stock was assessed to the bank instead of the stockholders, after the county commissioners had remitted amounts already paid and had canceled that against real estate amounting to $8,000, paid the taxes to the county treasurer today.

INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

Contains Removal Restriction Clause—A Grand Boon

Washington, Mar. 4.—The conferees on the Indian appropriation bill today agreed on the three propositions in dispute in that measure. The house receded from its disagreement to the senate amendment removing restrictions for the sale of land in Indian Territory. The senate receded from its amendment appropriating $1,500,000 for the Colville Indians in Washington as reimbursement for the sale of lands and the senate receded from its amendment appropriating $1,500,000 for the irrigation project for the Pima Indians on the Gila river in Arizona.

REPORT ON THE BEEF TRUST

President Transmits to Congress
Commissioner Garfield's Findings Regarding Packers.

THE "BIG SIX" MAKING LITTLE MONEY

Mr. Garfield's Report Favors the Packers, and Declares There is Very Little Profit in the Business—Refrigerator Car Lines Pay a Great Deal Better Percentage on the Investment.

Washington, March 3.—President Roosevelt has transmitted to congress the report of the commissioner of corporations upon the beef industry submitted in compliance with the resolution of the house of representatives adopted March 7, 1904. The president's letter of transmittal is as follows:

"I transmit herewith a report from the secretary of commerce and labor upon that portion of the resolution of the house of representatives, adopted March 7, 1904, having to do with the prices of cattle and dressed beef, the margins between such prices, and the organization, conducts and profits of the corporations engaged in the beef packing industry. In view of the fact that the department of justice is now engaged upon other matters involved in the resolution, the secretary of commerce and labor cannot at this time report thereupon."

The report of the commissioner of corporations is to the effect that six packing companies—Armour & Company, Swift & Company, Morris & Company; the National Packing company; the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company, and the Cudahy Packing company, slaughtered in the year 1903 about 45 per cent. of the total indicated slaughtered in the United States; that the average net profit in 1903 for three of the companies was 99 cents per head; that the year 1902, instead of being one of exorbitant profits was less profitable than usual; that during the month when price of beef was the highest some at least of the packers were actually losing money on every head slaughtered. The changes in the margin between prices of cattle and beef are in themselves no indications whatever of the change in profits says the report. Prices and conditions for the years 1902, 1903 and 1904 are reviewed, and the conclusions are stated that the six companies especially discussed are apparently not over capitalized; that the percentage of profit on the gross volume of business is comparatively small and that during the years 1902, 1903 and 1904 Swift & Company's profits have not exceeded two per cent. of the total sales. Cudahy & Company is stated at 1.8 per cent. for 1904 and 2.3 per cent. for 1902. With reference to private car lines it is said: "It is also stated that the profit is very liberal one, a net return of from 14 to 17 per cent. being indicated but it is added that reckoned on the basis of dressed beef transported, the profit would add but little to the cost of beef to the consumer. The profit on concern, Cudahy Packing company on its investment in cars was as high as 22 per cent. in one year. Further, it is stated that the six principal packing concerns while they slaughtered but 45 per cent. of the total cattle killed in 1903, they slaughtered nearly 98 per cent. of the cattle killed by eight leading western packing centers; that they control a very large percentage of the trade in beef particularly in the east and that they furnish New York about 75 per cent., Boston more than 85 per cent., Philadelphia about 60 per cent., Pittsburgh more than 40 per cent. and Baltimore about 50 per cent."

The report in conclusion says that the National Packing company mentioned is one of "the big six" is a merger of various packing plants, but except for that concern there appears to be no general inter-ownership of stock among the six principal companies.

Statehood Is Dead.

Washington, March 4.—The conference on the statehood bill began their session at 11 o'clock Friday with full knowledge that statehood was dead. They are not expected to submit a report and the victory rests with the house conferees who have plotted to kill the bill. Speaker Cannon will get his share of the blame.

Warden Jewett Displaced.

Topeka, Kan., March 4.—Gov. Hoch has appointed David W. Nall, of Herington, as warden of the penitentiary to succeed E. B. Jewett; W. H. Haskell, for adjutant commissioner; J. W. F. Hughes for adjutant general; E. B. Schermerhorn, Ansel R. Clark and John Q. Royce for the board of control of state charitable institutions.

House Refused to Concur.

Washington, March 4.—The house refused 189 to 75 to concur in the senate amendments in dispute in the river and harbor bill and sent the bill back to conference.

Rumors of Mutiny.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—Ugly rumors of mutiny among some of the Polish regiments at the front are in circulation but they are not confirmed.

Conference Report Agreed to.

Washington, March 4.—A complete conference agreement on the sundry civil appropriation bill has been agreed to.

The City hotel, the leading one in Vandalia, Mo., burned Thursday night. Loss, $4,000; insurance about $2,000.

MISSOURI LAWMAKERS.

Senate Committee on Jurisprudence Listen to Arguments for and Against Repeal of Breeders' Bill.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 3.—The committee on criminal jurisprudence listened to arguments for and against the bill to repeal the breeders' law, which has already passed the house. The speakers who attracted the most attention of the large audience present were the Rev. S. M. Neal, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church of Kansas City, speaking for the repeal of the bill, and Judge Henry W. Bond, of St. Louis, who argued against the repeal. The committee took the matter under advisement.

The senate passed a bill by Senator Vorles which makes it unlawful for a corporation to hold stock of another corporation. It makes exceptions in the cases of companies organized to manufacture light, heat, power and gas, or to construct and operate water plants or street railways, "or other such public utilities or service corporations, or such as are organized for doing a stock brokerage business."

The senate passed a bill by Senator Clarke to create a state library commission of the president of the state university, the state superintendent of schools and three members to be appointed by the governor. The commission is to give advice to free and public school libraries and to communities as to the best means of establishing libraries, the selection of books and other details of library management. The commission may also give aid in organizing new libraries or in improving those already established.

The Kleinschmidt bill, declaring null and void common law marriages, passed the house.

Senator Gillmore introduced a race track bill. It provides for licensing race tracks for not more than 90 days in one calendar year. While the senate may kill the bill repealing the breeders' law there is small chance of Gillmore's bill passing the house.

The thirty-seventh ballot of the joint session of the legislature had little effect upon the deadlock over the selection of a United States senator, although it marked two more desertions from the republican caucus—Hornine, Thomas K. Niedringhaus. The vote follows: Niedringhaus, 58; Cockrell, 70; Kerens, 15; McKinley, 5; Wykoff, 1; McIndoe, 1.

Previous to the joint session, the house refused to concur in the resolution adopted by the senate providing for an adjournment until Monday, and for the first time since the deadlock the legislature will vote for a United States senator on a Saturday.

KANSAS LAWMAKERS.

Conference Committee to Adjust the Difference Between House and Senate Reaches Agreement.

Topeka, Kan., March 4.—The senate has passed Senator Harrison's bill changing the mortgagor's equity of redemption from 18 months after sale to six months.

Senator Noftzger's bill for the prevention of trust was passed by the senate by a vote of 25 to 0. It is the Texas law and similar in purpose to the anti-discrimination act already passed.

The house considered a resolution providing for an investigation of the Kansas railroad rates by the state railroad commission, the result to show a comparison of rates in Kansas with those in other states. It is alleged that the railroads are discriminating against Kansas in this respect.

Kansas will soon have one of the strongest railroad laws of any state in the Union. The conference committee appointed to adjust the differences between the two houses on railroad legislation reached an agreement. The reports were ordered printed along with the bill as amended in conference, and final action on the bill will be taken in both branches. The bill gives the state complete control over the railroads in the matter of rates.

Finston to go to California.

Washington, March 4.—By direction of the president, the war department has issued an order relieving Brig. Gen. Frederick Finston from the command of the department of the lakes, with headquarters at Chicago, to take effect March 31, 1905, and assigning him to the command of the department of California, and to the temporary command of the Pacific division, from April 6, 1905, to succeed Brig. Gen. Francis Moore, who will retire from active service on that date.

Forty-Three Vessels Useless.

Chicago, March 4.—A Hong Kong special to the Chicago Daily News says: "Reports from Port Arthur state that 43 of the sunken Russian vessels in the harbor are useless. The Russians exploded dynamite in both the forward and aft holds and in the engine room. The machinery and magazines were destroyed by a torpedo and guns plugged and burst at the muzzle."

Territory Official Killed.

Muskogee, I. T., March 4.—Dr. Nicholas Nash of Garner, I. T., was fatally shot by United States Deputy Marshal J. S. Tilley, early Friday morning at Hanna, I. T. Tilley attempted to arrest the doctor on a charge of disturbing the peace and thought the doctor was about to pull a gun, when he fired. Dr. Nash has been a very prominent territorial official for years.

Favors Reform.

Guthrie, Okla., March 4.—The lower house has passed Representative Noffsinger's bill providing that railroads shall not use discrimination in freight rates and also that legislators shall not accept passes, with a heavy penalty attached for such misdemeanor.
